

Sunday, May 13, to
Saturday, May 19, 2012

Animal Research in the Field: An Introduction

Travel to beautiful Eastern Ontario, Canada, to see firsthand how animals are studied in the wild. Accompany several research scientists from Queen's University Biological Station as they investigate various species of birds, reptiles, fish and insects.

Class: Saturday, April 28, 8 to 10:50 a.m.
Fee: $815, includes ground transportation, lodging and most meals. Tuition is extra.
A valid U.S. passport is required for entry into Canada.

For more information, contact James Ludden, (630) 942-4073, ludden@cod.edu, or the Field and Interdisciplinary Studies office, (630) 942-2356.

 Find us on Facebook www.facebook.com/CODFieldStudies

For Americans with Disabilities Act accommodations, call (630) 942-2141 (voice) or (630) 858-9692 (TDD).