

Fantasy Costumes

Cosplay is described as people dressed up in costumes acting as a fictional character. Cosplay stands for Costume play. Members make their clothing from fabric and work on costumes for themselves or for a customer. The members of Cosplay work for commission. In Cosplay members have an open mind to create a fictional character. The creator needs a picture of a fictional character before assembling the costume. Measurements are taken to help the creator ensure the customer fits well in their new costumes. Once completed, the customer may decide to go to a convention to show off their costume, especially made for them.

A fantasy wardrobe on display to observe.

Craig Bayfeild is sewing his jacket in the SRC 2800 last Tuesday.

By Amanda Kral
Photography Editor

Tricia Greiner smiling with her cape that she made.

An example of a handmade bonnet for a fantasy character.