Hi Colleen and Shellaine.

Thank you for your business. I have attached your licence file and our invoice for your order.

Re: Shaderware VirtualRadiography Licence and Installation

The latest versions of the software can be downloaded from our website, this is a direct link to the installation page...

<http://www.shaderware.com/help-install.html>

Please download the installer for the products you are interested in and execute them to install the software.

Links to instructions for the install are on the download page. Please note the installation of TomoVR is a 2 stage process and links to more detailed instructions can be found on the download page.

Please be aware that the software will need access to the internet to register your licences.

I have attached your licence file. Please place it in the Shaderware installation directory on each computer, ensuring it is called "lic.txt". Assuming a default installation, that will be the "Shaderware" directory within the "Program Files" directory. Most likely "C:\Program Files\shaderware" on a 32bit operating system or "C:\Program Files (x86)\shaderware" on a 64bit machine". However, it is possible that your program files directory has been moved by your systems administrator. Here is a screen print of an example install directory

I hope this is clear, if not please just email me.

If you have any questions relating to the installation and running of the software please do not hesitate to email

If you have any questions relating to the installation and running of the software please do not hesitate to email me.

Regards,

Neil
