Understanding the use of color with tone and shade through a spectrum, complementary, and triad compositions by using colored pencils and a monochromatic collage with paint swatches.

SPATIAL SEQUENCE

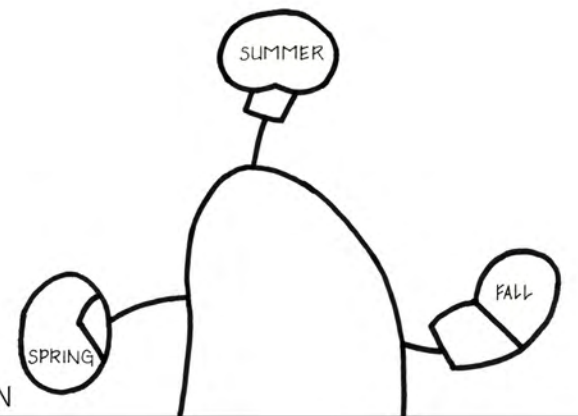

PLAN

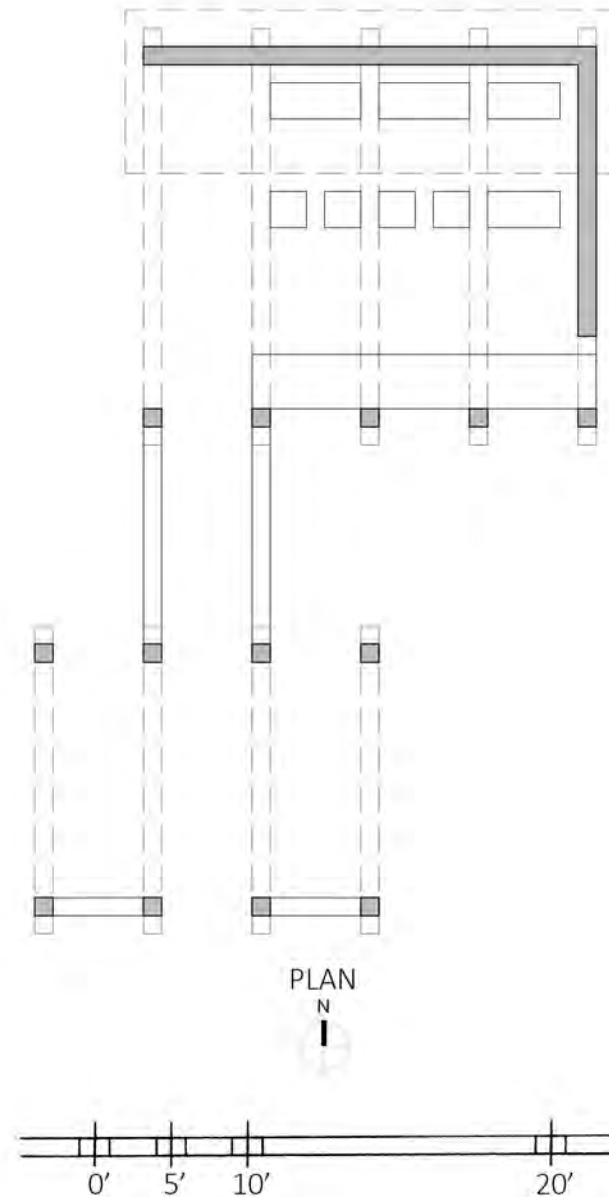

SECTION

Arch 1131
Professor Ostergaard

To create a sequence of spaces that are incorporated with the seasons fall, spring, and summer using a kit of parts.

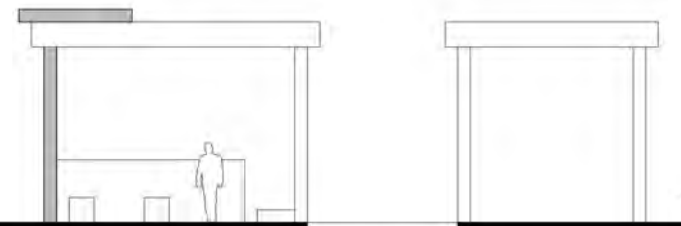

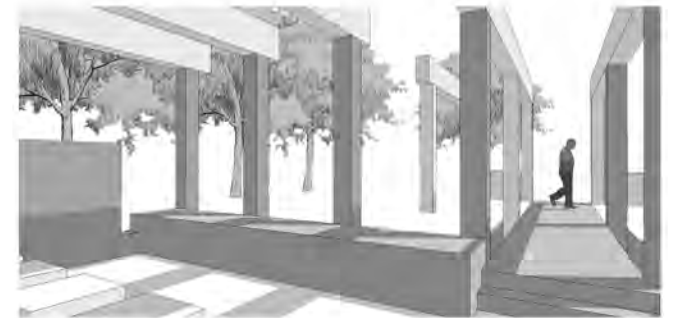

COMMUNITY GATHERING SPACE

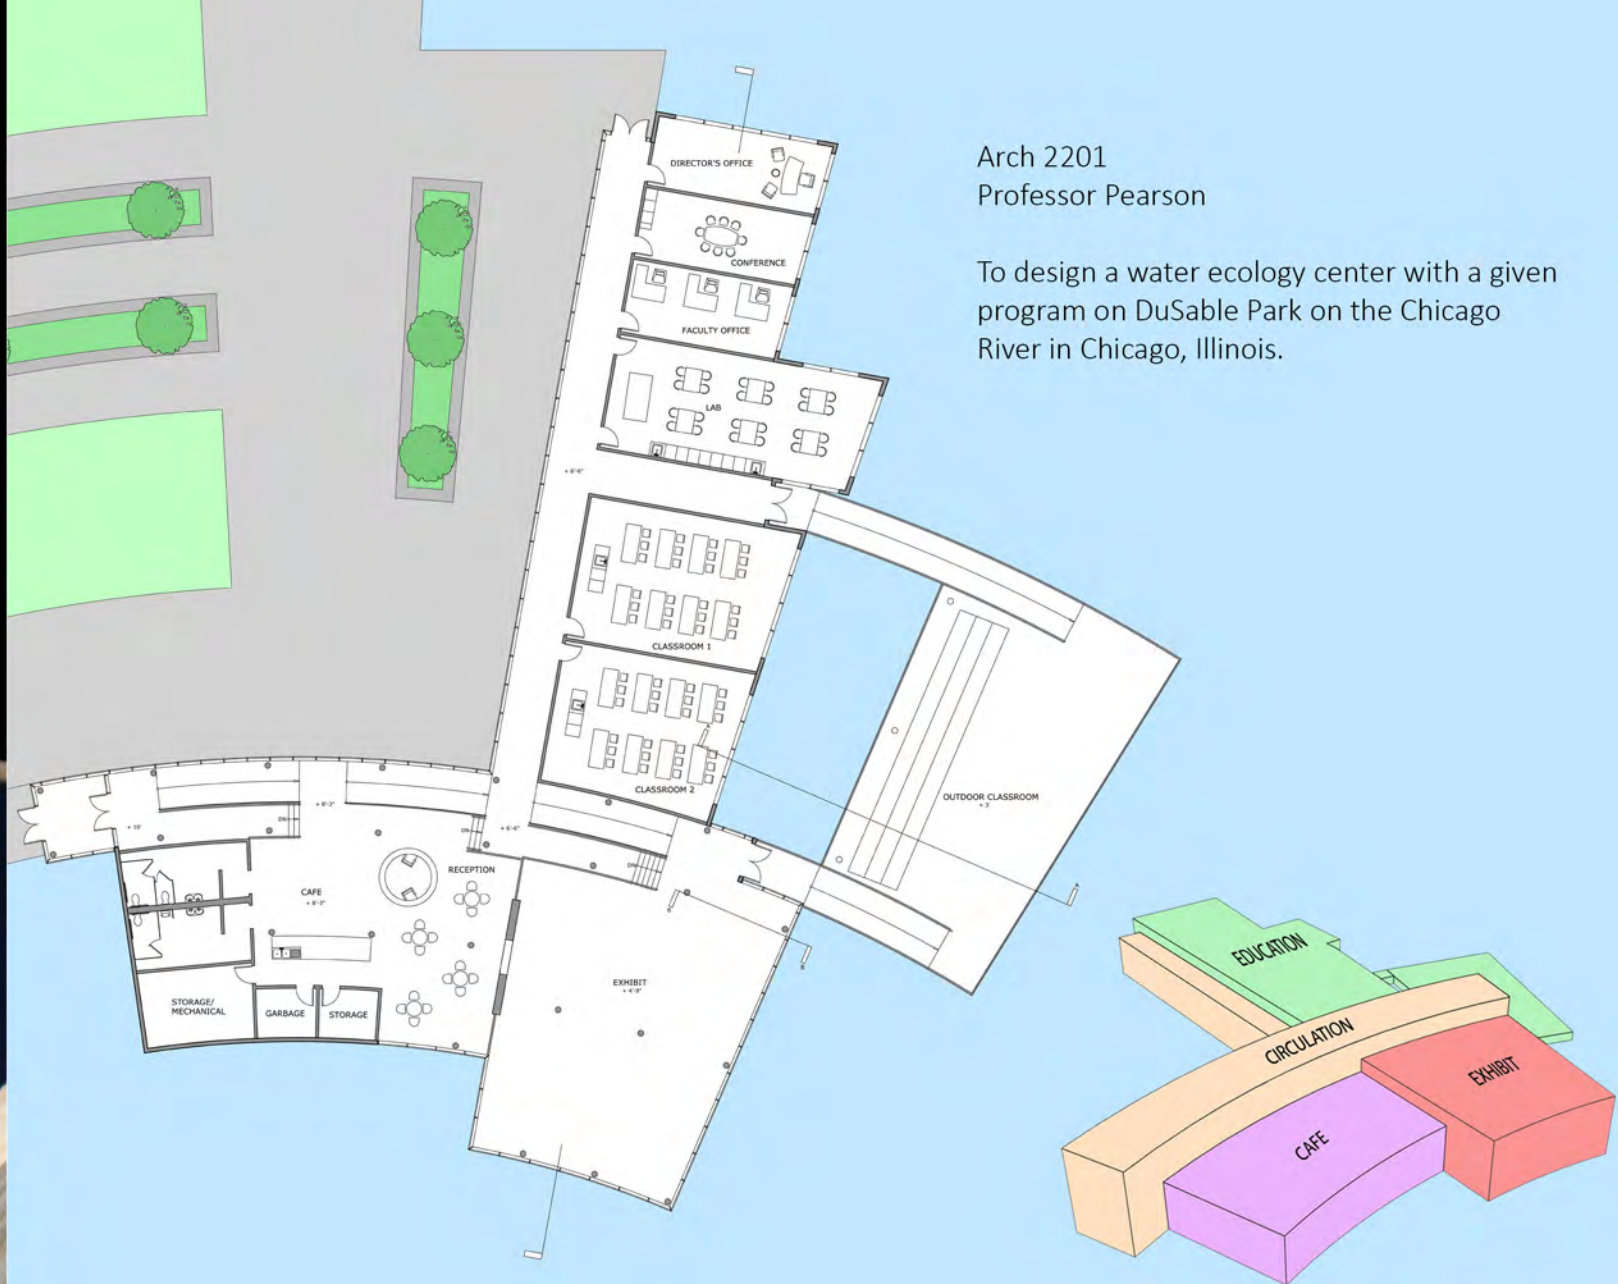

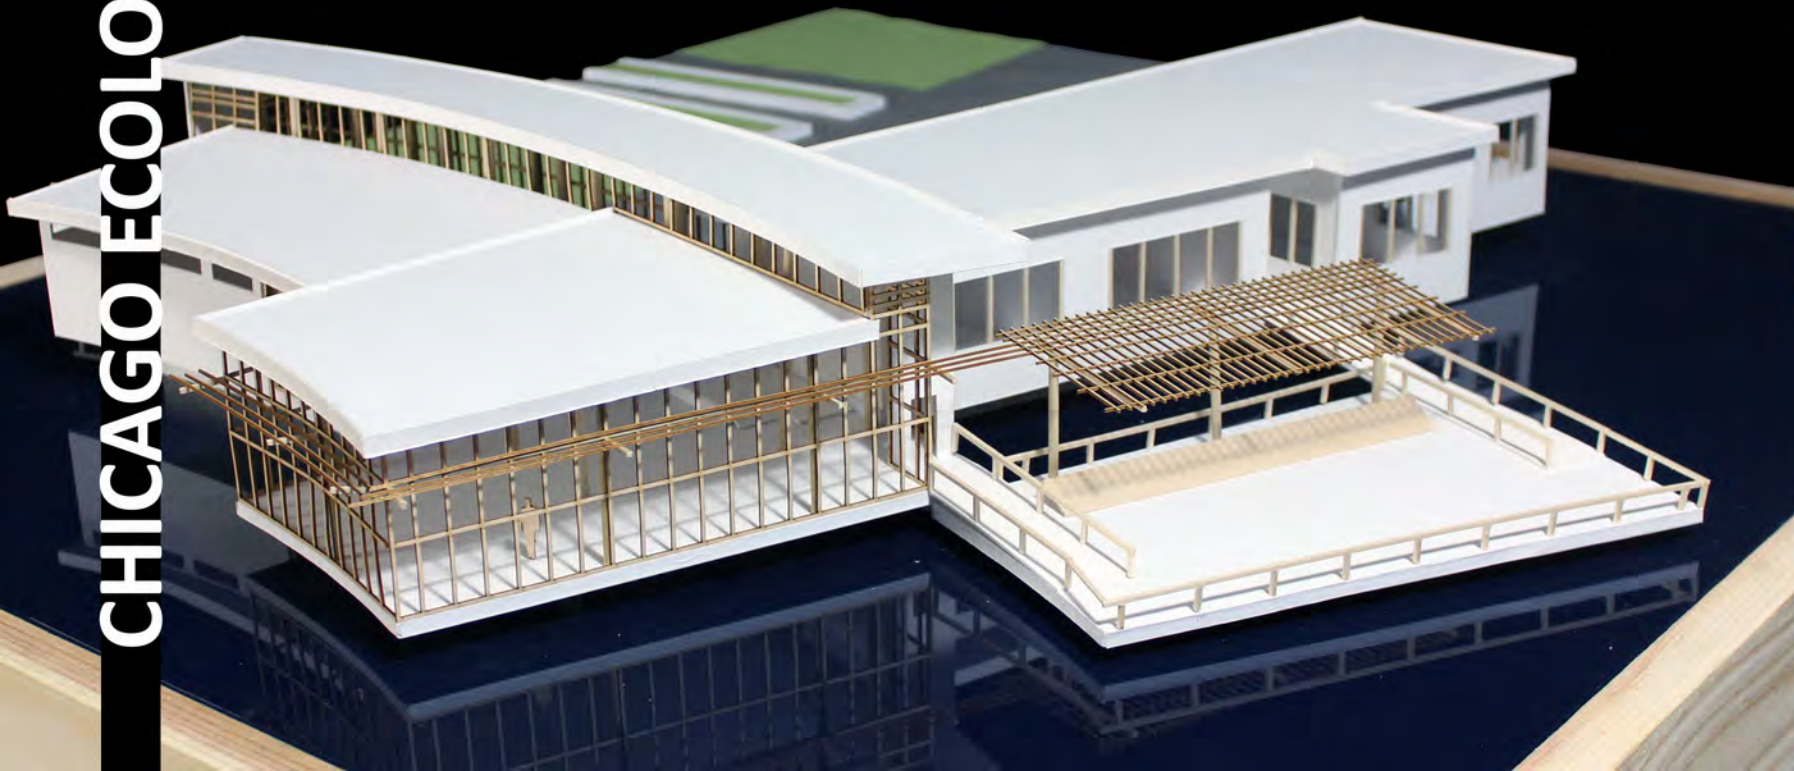

Arch 1131
Professor Ostergaard

To create a space in which students and the community can gather to receive a separation from school. The orientation of the building and placement of walls shields the users of the space from any school related activities. The over head beam structures guides you in to the space.

CHICAGO ECOLOGY CENTER

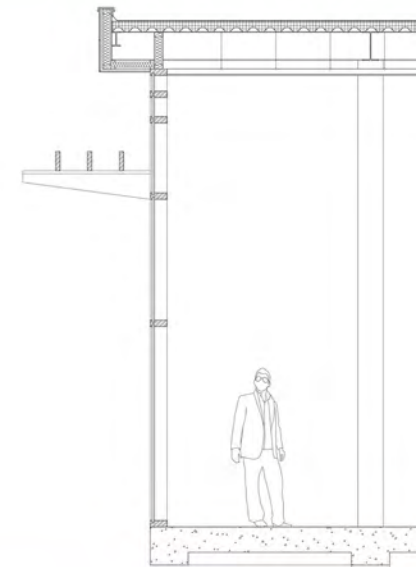

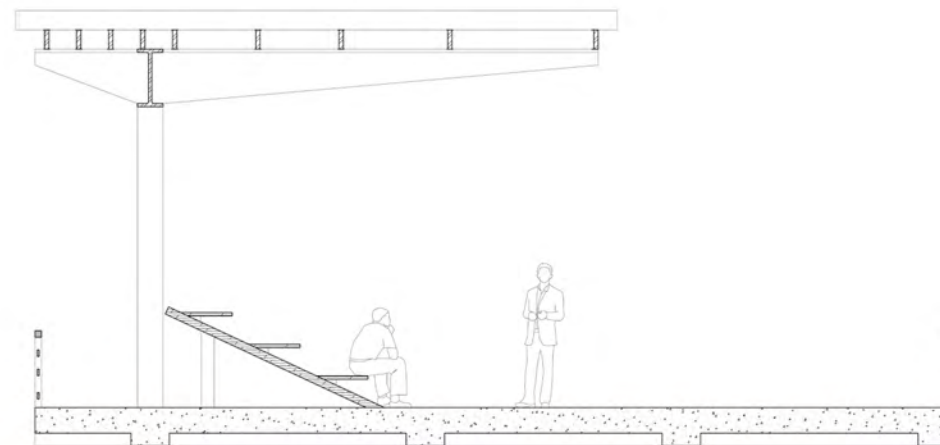

Arch 2201
Professor Pearson

To design a water ecology center with a given program on DuSable Park on the Chicago
River in Chicago, Illinois.

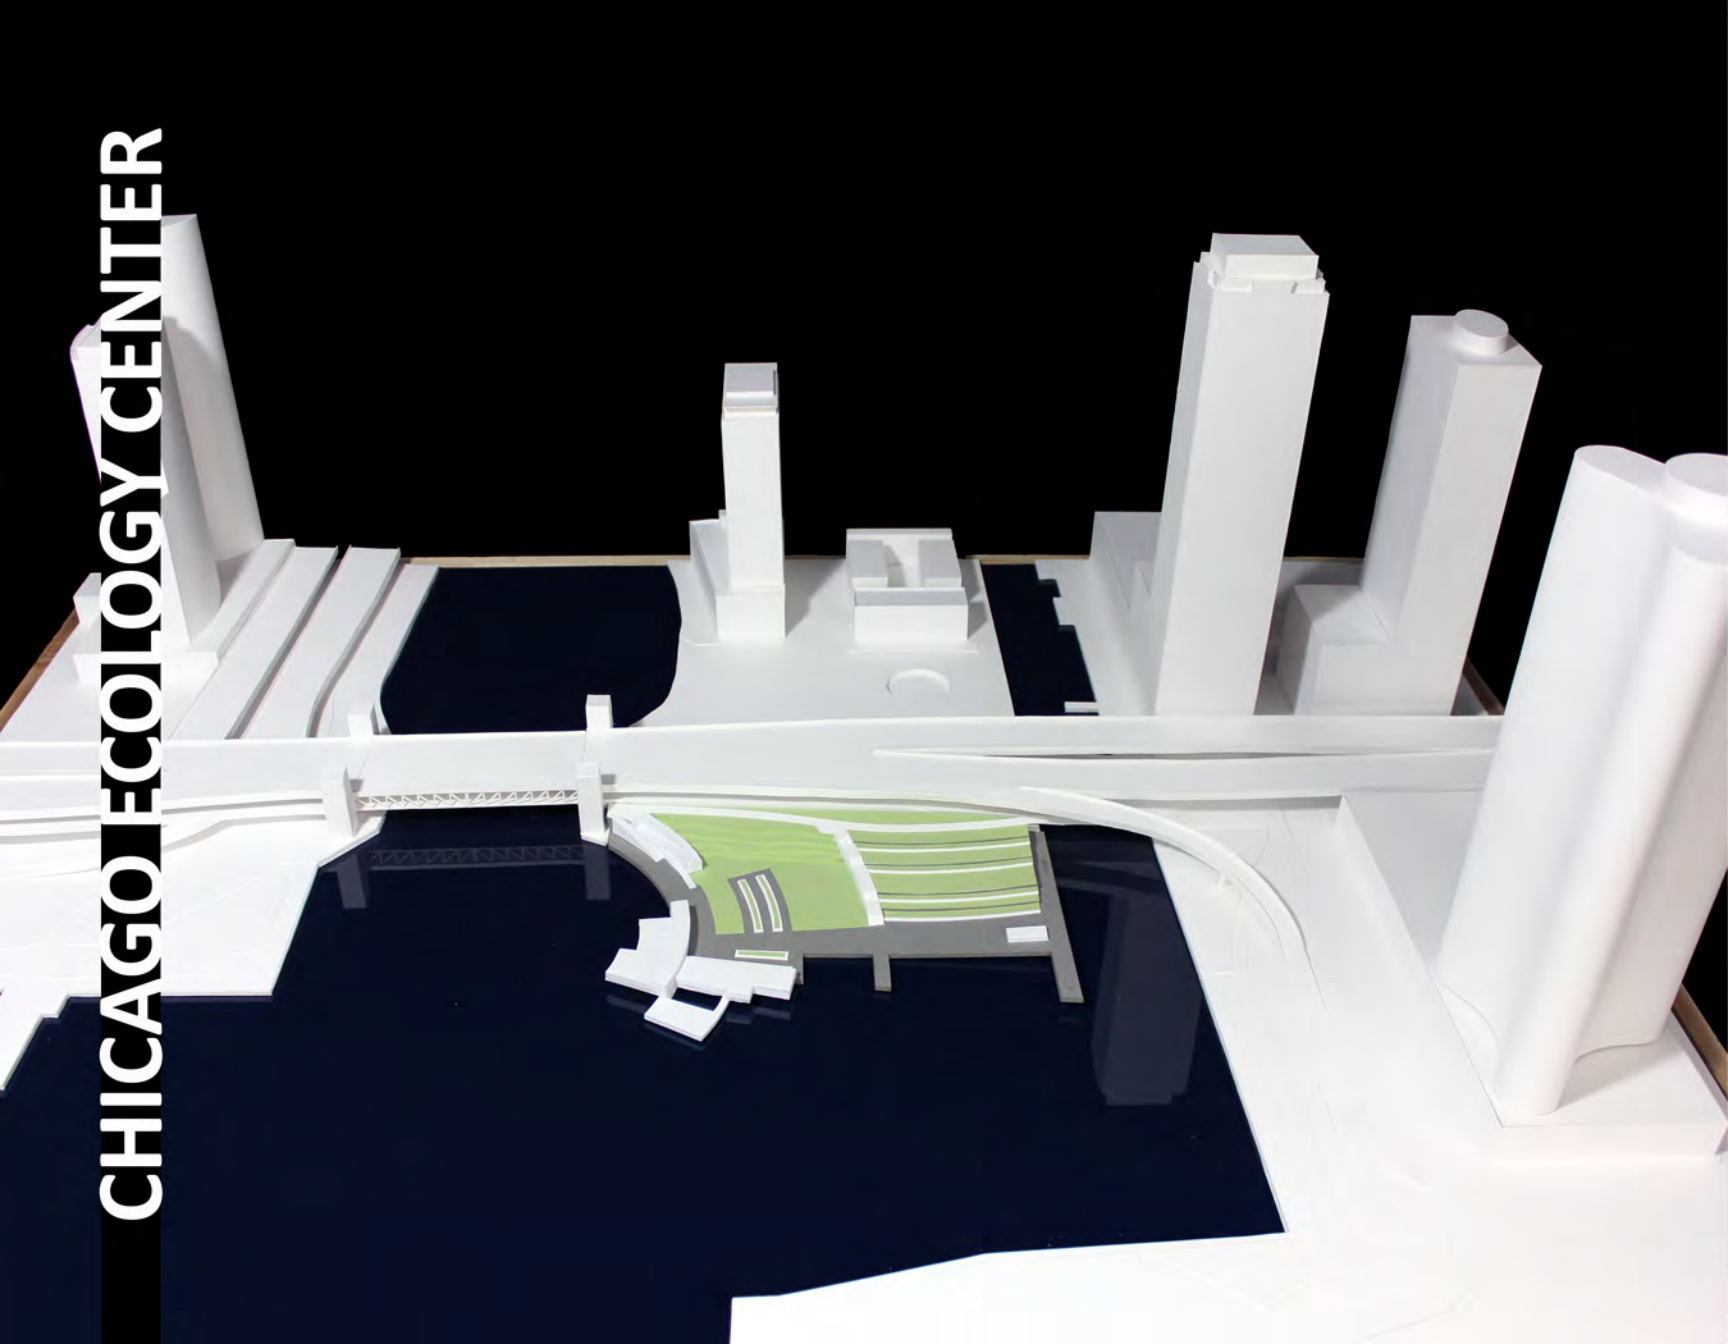

CHICAGO ECOLOGY CENTER

Using a center point in the Chicago River, the Water Ecology Center and DuSable Park was derived. The buildings main circulation route brings visitors from the public space, to the exhibit space, and ultimately to the outdoor space. The outdoor space is 3' above the river to raise awareness in water ecology and is orientated to maximize the view facing Lake Michigan.
